ATTRACTIONS

DILIGWA

Time travel to Diligwa – a 1710 outdoor Cherokee living village – located on the grounds of the Cherokee Heritage Center. Here, observe Cherokee life during the early eighteenth century. Villagers demonstrate traditional Cherokee crafts while explaining history and culture.

SPECIAL EXHIBIT GALLERY

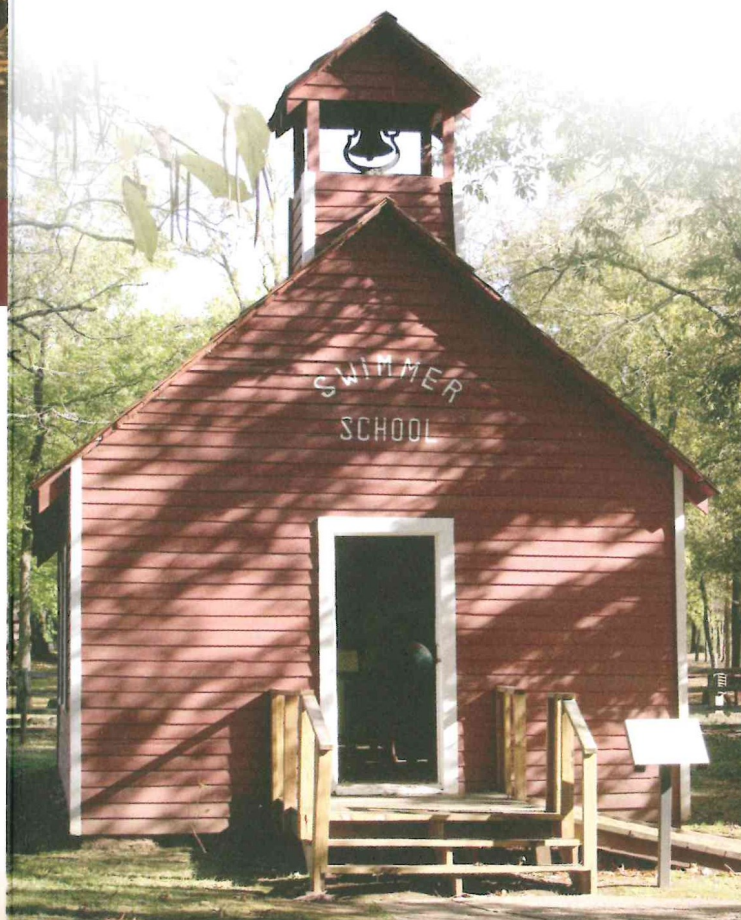

This gallery houses a variety of Cherokee-themed exhibits throughout the year and features two nationally recognized Native American art shows.

CHEROKEE FAMILY RESEARCH CENTER

The Cherokee Family Research Center exists to help people research their Cherokee ancestry. Its documents, from the Trail of Tears to the Dawes enrollment, are easily accessible and Cherokee-specific. Personal exploration of one's family is encouraged and included with CHC admission.

ADAMS CORNER RURAL VILLAGE

Explore the great change in Cherokee society in the days before Oklahoma statehood. At your own pace, tour a general store, three different types of housing, a school and a church in this 1890s setting.

TRAIL OF TEARS EXHIBIT

The Trail of Tears exhibit chronicles the forced removal of Cherokee ancestors from their indigenous homeland to Indian Territory, present-day Oklahoma. The exhibit is staged in six galleries and includes documentation and artifacts.

MUSEUM STORE

Indulge your taste for distinctive Cherokee artwork and gifts. Choose from an extensive collection of original paintings, sculptures, Cherokee apparel, books, authentic souvenirs and more.
